MESSAGE

I am happy to learn that the High Court at Calcutta is celebrating its Sesquicentenary on April 21-22, 2012.

The judiciary as one of the three branches of governance performs the crucial role of strengthening our democratic system. The judiciary in India has acquitted itself commendably. It has made contributions to our jurisprudence through its wise and time tested interpretations which has earned international acclaim.

On this occasion, I extend my warm greetings and felicitations to all those associated with the Celebrations and send my good wishes for the success of the event.
